CLASS HISTORY

The history of the senior class is a record of what we, the class of 1946, have accomplished during our high school career. It seems hard to realize that we, now as seniors, confronting you in all our strength and beauty with the wealth of experience written on our various features, were ever a group of empty-headed youngsters with nothing in our empty brains. Since then, we have indeed accomplished something to be thankful for, but I hear a critic cry out, "Ho, that cannot be true, we always hear of Freshmen standing at the foot of a steep hill up which they are obliged to climb before they reach the diploma which hangs on high." This criticism applys to those other days.

Whom shall we thank? First of all, we want to extend our deep appreciation and thankfulness to the school board, the Superintendent for his wise choice of teachers, and our principals, who have prepared and helped us with our studies. Next, our teachers, who have so patiently and faithfully worked over our empty brains for the past four years. Last, our parents. It was they, who urged us on to our goal of graduation.

It is true some strange things have happened since that far-off September morning of 1942 when we entered high school as Freshmen. There were 75 of us, then. That day all was strange and new to us. Some of us have been together since the first grade; Mary Ruth Banner, James Dickenson, Betty Nell Salyer, Mildred Campbell, George Campbell, Estelle Bratton, Sally Jessee, Stanley Banner, Lois Kiser, Mildred Couch, and Mayme Saddler. From Emerson came Bennie Johnson, Paul Burke, Marvin Byington, Nettie Castle, Elaine Byington, Henry Dotson and H. B. Isaacs, Jr. From Dorton came Wilma Byington, J. R. Welch, Jr., and Robert Porter. From Sunny Point came Muriel Wolfe, Thomas Salyer, and Lorene Horne. From Hamlin came June Hamm, Georgia Parks, and Neil Hale. From Sulphur Springs came Harold Carty ("Chick").

CLASS PROPHECY

Last night I sat alone in my study, enjoying the twilight and my own most wonderful thoughts. I heard a soft rustling behind me and turning I saw near my chair a queer little creature which I couldn't classify. It wasn't strictly human and yet I had never before in all my study of Natural History, ever seen anything distinctly resembling it. Before I had time to ask the customary questions "When and where were you born, are you white or black, single or married," the strange visitor asked in a mighty voice which made me leap out of my chair, "Are you the student who has been selected as the prophetess of the class of Temple Hill High School of the year 1945-46. If you are, I was sent here to give you information on any of your classmates whom you might wish to find!"

My heart was filled with joy when these words came to my ears because for sometime I had been wondering where all my classmates were and what they were doing.

The funny little creature lifted from a box three small stones which he handed to me and said "Take these and soon you will be in wonderland, where you will find all of your classmates once again."

I did and the next thing I knew I was walking down the street in Washington City; before my eyes came a small blonde-headed girl whom I thought I should know. Why sure, it's Estelle Bratton, who is employed by the F. B. I. in that city.

The farther I walked the more I thought and wondered. Next I came to a nice little schoolhouse. I said to myself, I'll go inside and find out who the teachers are. I took the chance and found that three of my best classmates were teaching: S. A. Fraley, Jr. was principal, Stanley Banner, Agriculture teacher, and Elaine Byington was Commercial teacher. They seemed to have a fine school and I enjoyed my little time spent with them very much.

As I came out of the school house my eyes glanced to the right side of the street. There I noticed a sign "Welch's Service Station." The next thought which came was if Junior and Mary Ruth had married and settled there. I could not resist going in. I was right; they had taken their vows two years before. I chatted there a while and at 2:30 I was to leave for an airplane ride with Marvin Byington as the pilot. While we were riding we talked about our classmates and good teachers that we had at Temple Hill. Marvin suggested that we tune in for some music on the radio, so I agreed. A voice was singing "The White Cliffs of Dover." It sounded very beautiful and the voice was familiar. "Listen, Marvin, did you hear that?" Annette Litton was singing from Hollywood. I had often wondered where she and Thomas Salyer were and if their friendship was still as it was in school. As the plane came lower the ground I could see a small object standing at the airport. The plane came down to the ground and I got out. It was Thomas standing there. He said, "Hello, cousin," and I said "Hello and good bye" to those friends and started on again.

Next, I find myself in a department store buying some lace handkerchiefs. The clerk, can you imagine, was Wilma Byington. She said she liked her job fine and was taking life easy.

Still onward I went. I saw a man and his wife and two small children coming toward me. They all looked very familiar. I said to myself that looks like Mr. Bane Daugherty and his wife, the former Beulah Moore, and children. The closer I came the more I hesitated to stop and talk.

"Who's the little man with the black whiskers? It's Chick Carty." Doesn't he look natural?

There's a good-looking man in that Navy Uniform who resembles a classmate of mine. It is Ray Hughes, still as blond as ever. He says the Navy is a swell place for a fellow to be!

For relaxation I decided to go to the movies. Who's the blonde-head selling tickets? Did I hear someone say it was Thelma Addison? Of course, she was always fond of movies when she went to school. I walked in the theater and found a very comfortable seat with a good-looking bunch of boys. I sat down, and looked from side to side. There I saw they were McNeil Hale, H. B. Isaacs, Albert Sargent, Bennie Johnson, and Thomas Phillips. I was really glad to see them. After the show, I was very hungry. So I went down the street and came to a place called Dickenson's Cafe. I remembered I went to schoolwith James. Could this be his place, was the thought which ran through my mind. I went in and found that I was right. His waitresses were Lorene Horne and his wife, the former Muriel Wolfe. I enjoyed my meal very much and on I went.

Who are the girls wearing those W.A.V.E. Uniforms. Don't they look nice? Why, it's Betty Nell Salyer and Gaye Herndon.

Just then passed a T-Model car. Boys and girls were in it laughing, talking, and having lots of fun. Don't those voices sound familiar? Who could it be? The driver is Henry Dotson, accompanied by Robert Porter, Paul Burke, George Campbell, Iris Bell King, and Sally Jessee. They were so merry it brought back the sweetest memories of my high school days.

Johnson's 5¢ & 10¢ & $1 Store. That reminds me of Rudolph and Mary Elizabeth. They have gone in partnership in a nice store and their two very nice clerks are Garnet Salyer and Nettie Castle. They had lots of pretty things and while I was there a very attractive little lady came in and bought some stationery. I thought I should know her. Just then I heard Nettie say, "What for you, Georgia?" I knew then it was Georgia Parks. For whom is the letter?

By this time, my hair was getting very ugly so I decided I'd go down to the beauty salon and get my hair groomed. I went to the "Powers-Hamm Beauty Salon" and there I was very lucky. I talked with Dorothy and she told me that she and June Hamm were in partnership and had employed Mildred Campbell, Betty Hall, and Flo Johnson to work for them. Out of that bunch Flo told me that she was married to a boy in the Navy. I couldn't believe it.

I still haven't seen all of my classmates. Some of them are nurses I hear. I must see all of them so I decided I'd go over to the hospital. I found Virginia King as private secretary, Mildred Couch as floor boss and special nurse of the hospital. She likes her work very much. While there, she told me that Betty Jane Peters and Mayme Saddler were in college in that town. I could not resist seeing them. Betty and Mayme told me their desire was to become teachers at "Ole Temple Hill" when their courses were finished.

I must go down to the post office and mail a letter home to tell mother what a wonderful time I am having. Just as I walked in the door, I met Evangeline Jackson coming out with lots of letters. She is employed there.

Since I have seen all of my classmates I must now go back to my studies; but before I do I want to say that it was a great pleasure seeing all of my classmates once again. Thanks to you, little creature, who made my wonderful thoughts come true!

Lois Kiser

From Dante came Betty Hall. From Radford came Ray Hughes and from Ervington High came Thomas Phillips.

That year our school life wasn't a bed of roses. We were looked down upon by the advanced classes as being poor, meek, and shy Freshmen. Wilma Byington, Annette Litton, Nettie Castle, and Lois Kiser went out for basketball and made outstanding players. Mary Ruth Banner won the Scholarship Medal.

We studied hard and soon entered our Sophomore year. Only 65 of us came back that fall as sophomores. We welcomed several new teachers to Temple Hill and the year passed quickly and we soon found ourselves studying for our final exams.

At the beginning of the Junior year, we welcomed Mr. J. E. Carter as principal, who had taken Mr. Robinson's place. Mr. Carter has been well-liked by the students and made many improvements in our school work. During that year we received our class rings and gave a very promising Junior play, "Spring Fever", under the direction of Mrs. Carter. Our Girl's Basketball team won the county championship Trophy of 1945 in the Tournament. This happy year soon came to an end and we were truly sorry to see it close.

Then came the Senior year with all its dignity and grace. We had a new homeroom teacher this year, Mrs. Carter, whom we respected and appreciated. She has helped us in every possible way. At the beginning of this year, we welcomed three new pupils to join our happy class; Iris Belle King from Dante, Beulah Dougherty from Kingsport, and Ray Hughes from a Naval Academy in Florida.

At last we have reached our goal of graduation. We feel all our struggles and disappointments haven't been in vain and we can easily look back through the past four years and see our mistakes, yet they are only dim shadows in the past and we look forward to a brighter tomorrow. When the members of this remarkable class have all achieved the fame and honors that are bound to come to them, the memories of these four years will linger in the hearts of each and every one.
